

This rule, and in particular how it applies to people who are already in this country legally, and as such have already been vetted by appropriate agencies, is an excellent example of of the type of knee jerk bad policy that gives government regulation a bad name.

I urge you to not adopt TSA-2004-19147 as it is currently written.